

Felton/Belfast

LECTURE_02.04.09

Award winning, New York-based graphic designer Nicholas Felton has gained an enviable reputation for creating sophisticated and innovative information graphics. In particular, for his series of introspective annual reports in which he displays data compiled from his everyday activities as ingenious charts, diagrams and maps. These are self-published under his personal project alias Feltron. From his professional studio, Megafone, Nicholas has designed editorial info graphics for Esquire, New York Times, Wired and Print. He is also co-founder of Daytum.com; an online depository that converts the data surrounding subscriber's habits and routines into elegant graphs and charts.
